The College Scholarship Service (CSS) is an activity of the College Entrance Examination Board, concerned with improving equal educational opportunity. The CSS through the determination of financial need assists in the equitable distribution of financial assistance to students. Its services are offered to students and their parents, to secondary schools, to noncollegiate sponsors of financial aid programs, and to all institutions of postsecondary education. Operational activities for the College Scholarship Service are performed by Educational Testing Service.

The College Entrance Examination Board is a nonprofit membership organization that provides tests and other educational services for students, schools, and colleges. The membership is composed of more than 2,000 colleges, schools, school systems, and education associations.

Copies of this book can be ordered from Publications Order Office, College Entrance Examination Board, Box 592, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. The price is $2.50.

Financing education is a problem. Meeting the costs of a college education is a problem that more and more American families face every year. Not only the lower-income family, but also middle-income and upper-income families are finding it increasingly difficult to meet these costs. Parents and students both need to plan more adequately to meet the kinds of bills they will have to pay for a year of postsecondary education. To do this, information is needed about the kinds of support available and what education costs. A good deal of information is available about the kinds of support provided by the federal and state governments, private agencies, and institutions of postsecondary education. But frequently there is too little information available and too little consideration given to the other half of the problem of financing a postsecondary education--the costs of the kind of educational program the student will pursue.

Much of the financial aid which is available is awarded on the basis of need. The expenses associated with the educational program is one of the factors used in determining a student's financial need. Another is the amount that a student and his parents can afford to pay from their income, savings, and other assets. In this book, the focus is on the costs of postsecondary education. Meeting College Costs, another booklet published by the CSS, provides a step-by-step outline parents and students can use to determine how much they can afford to spend for college costs and a means of figuring financial need.

The cost estimates listed here were provided by the postsecondary institutions themselves. It should be stressed that these represent the average costs, and that those for any individual student at an institution may be quite different. But they can be useful in assisting students, parents, and school counselors in making plans about financing postsecondary education.

The data provided in this book was collected by the College Scholarship Service (CSS), an activity of the College Entrance Examination Board, that assists postsecondary institutions, states, and federal agencies in determining how much financial need a particular student has at a particular institution. The CSS itself does not grant any financial assistance, but only helps the institutions determine financial need.

WHAT IS AN EXPENSE BUDGET?

The expense budget for the typical student at a postsecondary institution is made up of four principal parts: tuition and fees, room and board, travel, and miscellaneous personal expenses. In determining an individual student's financial need, the institution will begin with these items and consider other expenses such as child care, debt repayment, etc. But the basic four items are generally included for all students.

Tuition and Fees. Tuition is the institution's charge for instruction. Fees are charges for such services as the library, the health center, the student center, and so on. While the actual costs vary from one institution to another according to the curriculum, academic level, and type of instruction offered, the tuition and fees charged to the student are more closely related to the kind of institution he is attending. As a general rule, public institutions offer education at the lowest prices to students who are legal residents of the state or district in which the institution is located. But public institutions, both two-year and four-year, typically have an additional tuition charge for students who are not legal residents of the state or district. This "out-of-state" or "out-of-district" tuition may make the cost of a public institution as high or higher than that of a private institution.

Private nonprofit institutions normally price their tuition below the real costs to them, but their tuition charges are still likely to be considerably higher than those of public institutions. Proprietary schools normally set their prices to cover all their own costs.

The following table shows the estimated average tuition and fees for public two- and four-year institutions, private two- and four-year institutions, and proprietary institutions, for the 1974-75 academic year.

1974-75 AVERAGE RESIDENT TUITION AND FEES

Type of Institution	Average
Public 2-Year	$ 287
Private 2-Year	1,578
Public 4-Year	541
Private 4-Year	2,080
Proprietary	1,651

The amounts shown here for the public institutions are the average amounts charged to students who are legally residents of the state or district in which the institution is located. At the public two-year institutions, students who are not legal residents of the district would have to pay an average additional nonresident tuition charge of $850. At the public four-year institutions the additional nonresident tuition for 1974-75 will average $1,313.

Room and Board. Students who do not live at home with their parents are called "residents" (not to be confused with legal in-state residents). If they live in a college dormitory they are generally charged a flat rate which includes rental of a room and most of their meals for nine months. Students who do not live at home or in a college dormitory but find a place of their own near the campus must pay their own rent and buy their own food. The costs depend on where the housing is located and whether the accommodations are shared, but in general off-campus housing costs about the same as living in a college dormitory.

"Commuting" students, those who live at home with their parents, generally do not have to spend as much for room and board as resident students (but families should remember that they will still need to buy food for the student) and the commuting student will still need money for meals on the campus. Classes may start early in the morning and go on until late at night. Students who live at home may have to buy at least one meal a day on campus, and usually spend additional amounts on snacks bought in the student center or restaurants around the campus.

The following table shows the amounts institutions estimate their resident and commuter students should plan to spend for room and board for the normal nine-month academic year.

1974-75 AVERAGE ROOM AND BOARD

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$1,086	$ 778
Private 2-Year	1,303	917
Public 4-Year	1,116	704
Private 4-Year	1,207	796
Proprietary	1,387	946

In general, the room and board costs do not vary greatly for the different types of institutions. Costs at the proprietary institutions are the highest, largely because these institutions typically do not provide subsidized resident facilities of their own and students must find their own housing in the communities. The room and board charges reported by institutions in large metropolitan areas are higher than those reported by institutions in small towns and rural areas. The highest estimates of room and board come from institutions located in the northeastern part of the country, and the lowest estimates from those in the southern part.

Travel. Almost all students must spend some money for travel. Those who stay on or near the campus must get there at the start of the year and return home at the end of the year. Most resident students go home several times during the year. Students who live at home and commute to campus have to pay any costs of travel, whether by public transportation or private car. At some institutions, particularly those located in large cities, the costs of daily parking can be substantial. As the following table shows, institutions typically estimate a larger amount for the average transportation expenses of commuter students than for residents.

1974-75 AVERAGE TRANSPORTATION EXPENSES

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$ 247	$ 338
Private 2-Year	211	291
Public 4-Year	17[illegible]	294
Proprietary	260	309

Such costs can off-set the commuting student's savings on room and board.

Personal Expenses. Every college student has to buy his own books, pencils, paper, and other things he needs for studying. The amount that an individual student spends will generally be related to the kinds of classes he takes. Some courses, such as engineering, require that a student purchase relatively expensive supplies such as a slide-rule or a small desk-calculator. Others, such as English literature, may require that the student purchase a number of books for a single course. Most institutions have a campus bookstore where students can purchase the books and supplies they need. Many can be purchased "used" from students who have completed the course earlier, but some must be purchased new. In the data used to prepare this book, the institution's estimate for books and supplies is included in personal expenses, and will usually range from about $100 to $150 a year.

Other expenses, generally called "personal" or "miscellaneous" include items such as clothing, toothpaste and soap, entertainment, medical insurance, and furnishings for dormitory rooms. Many students think they can economize in this area, but as the following table shows, the institutions uniformly estimate that students will spend slightly more than $500 for books, supplies, and miscellaneous personal expenses.

1974-75
AVERAGE PERSONAL EXPENSES

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$ 533	$ 519

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

The following table shows the average total budgets for both resident and commuter students estimated by the postsecondary institutions for the 1974-75 academic year.

1974-75
AVERAGE TOTAL BUDGET

Type of Institution	Resident	Commuter
Public 2-Year	$2,153	$1,922
Private 2-Year	3,617	3,287
Public 4-Year	2,400	2,085
Private 4-Year	4,039	3,683
Proprietary	3,817	3,414

The lowest student budgets are found at public institutions, where commuting students spend an average of about $2,000 for the year and resident students between $200 and $400 more. For commuting students at the public two-year institutions, tuition and fees make up about 15 percent of their total expenditure, room and board 40 percent, transportation 18 percent, and personal miscellaneous expenses (including books and supplies) an additional 27 percent. At the other end of the cost spectrum, students who are campus residents at private four-year institutions spend 51 percent of their money on tuition and fees, 30 percent on room and board, 14 percent on personal miscellaneous expenses, and only 5 percent on transportation. The following charts show the average budgets for both resident and commuter students at the five different types of institutions.

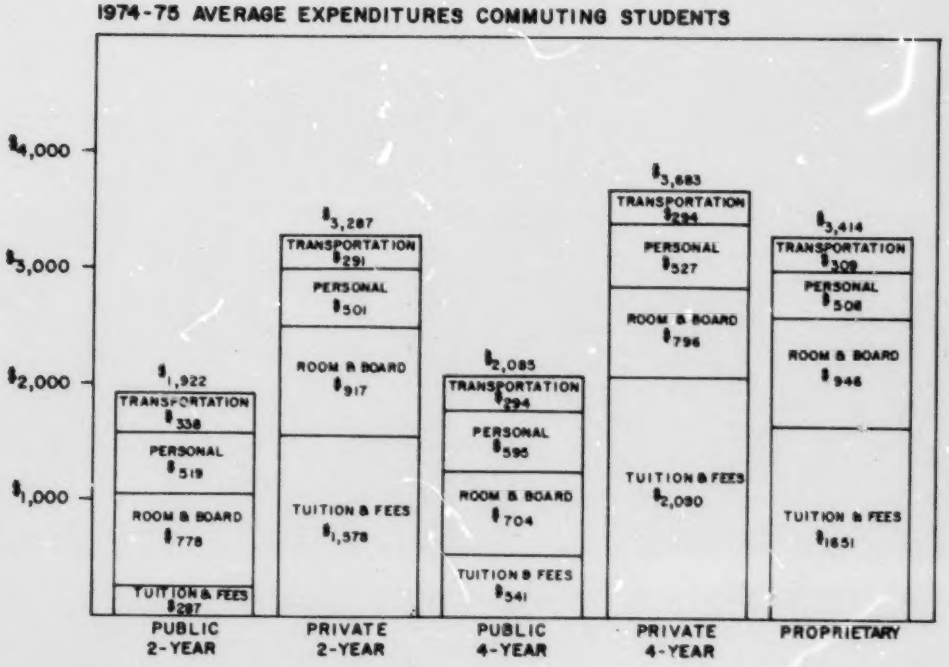
1974-75 AVERAGE EXPENDITURES COMMUTING STUDENTS



COSTS ARE CHANGING

The cost of a postsecondary education, like everything else, is going up. The average budget for commuter students in public two-year colleges has increased $257 (15.4 percent) over the past year and $492 (34.4 percent) since 1970-71. In public four-year institutions, the average resident budget has increased $158 (7.0 percent) over the past year and $617 (34.6 percent) over the past five years; the average commuter budget has increased $310 (17.5 percent) over the last year and $554 (36.2 percent) over the past five.

The largest increase is estimated for the commuting student at the two-year private institutions, where costs for 1974-75 will increase an estimated $704 (27.3 percent) over 1973-74 (an increase of $1,453 or 79.2 percent since 1970-71). Costs for resident students at the private two-year institutions will increase $423 (13.2 percent) over 1973-74 and $1,237 (52.0 percent) over the past five years. Private four-year institutions anticipate an increase of $521 (16.5 percent) for their commuting students and $346 (9.4 percent) for their resident students as compared with 1973-74. These increases are $1,301 (54.6 percent) for commuters and $1,065 (35.8 percent) for residents as compared with the budgets for the 1970-71 academic year.

Private 2-Year	423	(13.2%)	$1,237	(52.0%)

Public 4-Year	310	(17.5%)	554	(36.2%)
Private 4-Year	521	(16.5%)	1,301	(54.6%)

While the dollar amounts are the smallest, the public two-year institutions show the largest percentage increase in tuition. Public two-year institution tuition will increase 14.3 percent ($36) next year with the increase since 1970-71 70.8 percent ($119). Tuition and fees at the four-year public and private institutions will increase 8.6 and 7.1 percent ($43 and $138) respectively as compared with 1973-74. Viewed over the five year period, the increases at the public four-year institutions have amounted to 37.0 percent ($146) and at the private four-year institutions 37.1 percent ($563). At the private two-year institutions the one-year change is 13.6 percent ($189) and the five-year change 37.9 percent ($434).

EXPENSES AT SPECIFIC INSTITUTIONS

On the following 44 pages, estimates of the average student expense budgets for more than 2,200 individual institutions are listed. An asterisk (*) indicates that the cost figures are for the 1973-7' academic year because these institutions had not submitted estimates of student expenses to the College Scholarship Service for the 1974-75 academic year by January 15, 1974. Institutions whose cost estimates have not been updated for 1973-74 or 1974-75 have not been included. For a variety of factors, costs for an individual institution may change before the beginning of the academic year in the fall of 1974. Some of the institutions that have not submitted estimates for 1974-75 are in fact anticipating some changes and have delayed providing costs data for that reason.

It should be noted that these costs figures are both estimated and average. As averages, the estimates included here may not be appropriate for the particular circumstances of any individual student. The professional financial aid administrator at each institution must review individually the needs of each student who applies for assistance and must develop a specific budget to represent that student's real costs for the year. Such individual budgets may differ from the averages presented in this publication.

Students who will need financial assistance to meet college costs must plan ahead. One important step is to apply for financial aid early. As part of the financial aid process many institutions ask students to file a Parents' Confidential Statement (PCS). The PCS is used by institutions in determining the need students have for financial assistance. The PCS is designed to collect information about a family's financial circumstances. Parents complete this form and send it to the College Scholarship Service, where it is analyzed and a report is prepared for every institution and scholarship sponsor named by the parent. Copies of the PCS are available from guidance counselors in high schools and community agencies. Following the budget information for most institutions is the date by which the institution suggests that the parents send the PCS to the College Scholarship Service for analysis. The date provided in this publication is intended to assure adequate time for processing by the CSS and for institutional review and for award decisions to be made. It should not be interpreted as a deadline date, for many postsecondary institutions may review PCS forms filed with the CSS after this date. The date may also differ from the deadlines for financial aid applications, which are published by most institutions in their catalog or financial aid publications. Also, some institutions use the Student's Financial Statement (SFS), another need analysis document of the CSS that assists in figuring need of dependent or self-supporting students. The SFS is distributed directly by the institutions that use it. Specific information about the application deadlines of individual institutions can be obtained from the financial aid administrator.

Meeting College Costs. The responsibility for meeting postsecondary educational costs is shared by the student, his parents, the institutions, private donors and agencies, and the various levels of government. This pattern of financing reflects the philosophy that education benefits both the individual and the society. The College Scholarship Service assists institutions and other sources of financial assistance in estimating how much a student and his parents can contribute toward college expenses. This publication is intended to assist in estimating what these expenses will be. Students who are informed of college costs and the availability of financial aid should have the best chance of attending the institution of their choice.
